Always store your food and packaging materials off the floor.

DO IT RIGHT!

Storage

Facility and equipment

- Food containers and packaging materials pick up dust and filth when they are placed on the ground.
- When you lift and use containers that have been stored on the ground, this filth is transferred to your hands or the food contact surfaces where you place the containers.
- By storing your containers off the ground, it makes it easier for you to clean your facility and look for any possible traces of pest activity.
